The Problem With ATS

Most employers use ATS software to screen resumes automatically. If your formatting confuses the system or you're missing the right keywords, you get filtered out — no matter how qualified you are.

What Goes Wrong

- Tables and columns that break parsing
- Headers and footers the bot can't read
- Missing job-specific keywords
- Incompatible file formatting

The Consequence

Even the most qualified candidates get eliminated before a single human eye ever lands on their resume. The ATS doesn't care about your GPA, your internships, or your passion — it only cares about what it can parse.

You could be the perfect candidate and still never get a callback.

How to Use Resume Weapon

Getting your ATS score takes three simple steps – no account needed, no friction.

Understanding Your Score

Resume Weapon rates your resume from 0 to 100. Here's what each range means for your job search.

80–100 · Excellent

Will pass most ATS filters. You're in great shape — focus on tailoring for each role.

70–79 · Good

Minor improvements needed. A few keyword tweaks and formatting fixes will push you over the line.

60–69 · Needs Work

Likely to be filtered out. Significant keyword gaps or formatting issues are hurting your score.

Below 60 · Poor

High rejection risk. Your resume needs a substantial overhaul before applying.

Aim for 80 or above to confidently pass most automated screening systems.

Score Distribution at a Glance

Most unoptimized student resumes fall in the danger zone. See where the majority land — and where you need to be.

Score Range

The difference between a score of 59 and 80 can be the difference between getting an interview and never hearing back. Resume Weapon shows you exactly what to fix.
